

Foreign multinationals in 2023

Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur et Corse

Context

The French National Institute of Statistics and Economic Studies (INSEE) collects, produces, analyzes and disseminates information and data on the French economy. In the area of business statistics, INSEE can identify foreign businesses established in France. Based on this data, the institute carries out studies at national and regional levels, particularly through its regional offices, to contribute to a better understanding of foreign multinationals in public discussions.

Business France produces an Annual Report on Foreign Investment in France. This report includes firm decisions regarding foreign investment projects that create or maintain employment nationwide. These projects are detected by Business France through the monitoring of public announcements and the recording of projects by local authorities. Regardless of the method used for data collection, all projects are approved by the Regional Economic Development Agencies. In 2025, 1,878 investment decisions were made by foreign businesses in France, creating or maintaining 47,734 jobs.

This collaboration between INSEE and Business France aims to provide an overview of foreign multinationals in France and the establishments involved in a project supported by Business France. A national picture of foreign businesses in France therefore aims to improve understanding of the footprint left by foreign firms across France's regions and, in particular, the establishments supported by Business France at least once since 2014. Twelve regional profiles also feature foreign businesses within their respective regions.

This data will enable a better understanding of the role of foreign businesses in the French economy and Business France's support in terms of their establishment and sustainability.

The partnership between INSEE and Business France for this report required methodological adjustments to match the data. The scope of this report therefore only covers a portion of the more than 7,800 foreign businesses that chose to invest in France between 2014 and 2025, according to data from Business France. The methodology and definitions are featured at the end of the report.

Definitions and Scope

Foreign multinationals

In this publication, the term “foreign multinationals” refers to businesses owned by foreign multinational firms (92%) but also to foreign independent units (8%).

A foreign multinational firm is a group of companies whose decision-making center is located abroad and which controls at least one subsidiary (a legal entity, of which more than 50% is owned by another foreign legal entity) in France.

The scope covers all non-agricultural foreign commercial enterprises (excluding micro-entrepreneurs) with at least one active establishment in France (excluding Mayotte) in 2023.

Foreign-owned establishments

All active establishments located in France (excluding Mayotte) belonging to a foreign multinational in 2023.

Establishments supported by Business France

Establishments that were supported by Business France at least once between 2014 and 2023, under foreign ownership and still operating according to INSEE data in 2023.

The Business France investment decision database includes all projects identified since 2014. Retail projects are not included in this report as they are based on an independent establishment strategy.

Source of the business's parent group

- Foreign multinational : see above;
- French group based in France : A business with its decision-making center and all its subsidiaries in France. ;
- French multinational : A multinational firm with a decision-making center in France and at least one foreign subsidiary ;
- French independent business : A firm with a decision-making center in France and which does not belong to a group.

Full-time equivalent (FTE)

Total number of hours worked in the relevant activity divided by the annual average of hours worked in full-time jobs nationwide.

Business categories

A business category applies solely to the French footprint of a particular firm.

- Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) are those that, on the one hand, employ fewer than 250 people and, on the other, have annual revenues not exceeding €50 million or a balance sheet total not exceeding €43 million ;
- Among these, micro-enterprises employ fewer than 10 people and have annual revenues or a balance sheet total not exceeding €2 million ;
- Mid-sized companies (ETIs) are businesses that do not belong in the SME category and that, on the one hand, employ fewer than 5,000 people and, on the other, have annual revenues not exceeding €1.5 billion or a balance sheet total not exceeding €2 billion ;
- Large corporates are businesses that are not classified in the preceding categories.
